LOST IN TRANSLATION?!

Have you ever been frustrated when trying to talk or present to people – some people just don't seem to understand what you are saying, no matter how hard you try?!. Ever been on the other end of a presentation or conversation... ..and you just switch off, don't engage, or don't "get it"?

This one day workshop uncovers key elements that research has proved can get in the way of people trusting you, listening to you and being influenced by you. In the morning, you will discover your own personal communication style , and see how others are the same or different from you. The afternoon explores the secrets that the world of media, politics and leadership have used for years regarding how you "package" yourself and how that impacts others' reaction to you.

Learn how, with a few adjustments of mind, approach and style, you can tap into, and interact with a whole new world of people more effectively.

This fun interactive workshop will give you some deep insights, practical tools & techniques to help you overcome the "lost in translation" effect.
